

Privacy Policy

This is the Privacy Policy of The Counselling Barn, and it explains what information we may collect from you when you either visit our site or contact our us. Please be aware that we take your privacy very seriously and would not under any circumstances pass on any of your details to any third parties.

1. How We Collect Information

The Counselling Barn may collect information by using cookies on our website and also having you personally supply your information by filling in an on line form.

We do not use any information harvesting software or devices to gather information about your or your visits to our web site. Cookies are used to set session variables while you are at our site, and to remember you the next time you visit. There is never any personally identifiable information contained in cookies used by us, and all expire within 180 days of your last visit.

2. What Information Is Collected

When you visit this website you will generally be considered to be anonymous. We will explicitly ask you for your personally identifiable information only when you are joining a mailing list or signing up for other services that we may provide from time to time. The information collected will vary, depending upon which services you sign up for, or your preferences. Some of the information supplied can include, but is not limited to:

-

Title, first and last name

-

Business address and type

-

Address and postcode

-

Telephone, fax and / or mobile number

-

E-mail Address

-

Your Preferences for our marketing lists

Information gathered or supplied by cookies that may be placed by us on your computer is limited to the following two types:

-

Information about previous visits and sessions that will be used to load customized content for you

-

Information that will identify you to our system, such as a username or other information that is not personally identifiable but enables us to see patterns of usage of the site and tailor the site accordingly.

3. How Information Is Used

We will only use the information that you supply us with for our normal business operations, our own internal demographic purposes, and to respond to your emails. Under no circumstances will any of your details be supplied to any third parties for any reason.

4. How Information Is Secured

We incorporate the highest online security standards available. This includes, but is not limited to using 128-bit SSL secured pages, firewalls, and other hardware, software and physical controls to ensure safety of information.

5. Links To Third Party Web Sites

We may provide links to third party web sites from time to time on our own web site. While we maintain a high integrity in regards to your personal information and it's use on our site, and within our company, we can not make any claims nor guarantees to these third party web sites. You will be subject to the privacy policy and other terms and conditions of the third party web site, The Counselling Barn encourages all of our visitors and customers to read and fully understand any policies that are applicable.